OUR OTTAWA LETTER.

The Liberal Demonstration in Toronto—Hon. W. Laurier and the Jesuit Question.

He Defends His Vote and Pleads for the Abolition of the Discord Which Exists.

[From our own Correspondent.]

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—During the week just ended I had the pleasure of attending the great Liberal demonstration in the pavilion, Toronto, when the Hon. Wilfred Laurier, leader of the party, delivered a speech which few politicians would have ventured to do before such an audience, the large majority of whom being hostile to the views expressed therein. The speech was an able deliverance on the questions now agitating the public mind. But the utterances of Mr. Laurier will remain more deeply impressed on the public for the courageous manner in which they were uttered rather than for the ability which marked his sentences. It is a well known fact that the more timid section of the Reform party were opposed to their leader handling the Jesuit question, especially before a Toronto audience. The Queen city, as the metropolis of Ontario is known by, is the head center of the anti-Jesuit agitation. In fact it is in Toronto that all sectarian agitations arise. During the last general provincial elections all political issues were cast aside in Toronto and the campaign was fought on the "Ross Bible" in the public schools, said to be introduced there through Catholic interference. It was a discussion on "Orange" vs "Green," while the general management of public affairs by the government was wholly ignored. Afterwards the question of French in the public schools was earnestly discussed in Toronto, and until such was the case the good country people of the counties of Prescott and Russell, in this vicinity, were not aware of the "French agression" which was settling down in their midst. Like past elections, the coming one—provincial, first, Dominion next—will be fought out in Toronto, particularly, on a religious basis. This would have been the case, even if the Jesuit question had not arisen. Toronto is doubtless a great and progressive city, but it has a terrible weakness for openly declaiming to the world its "goody-goody" principles. It is the home of Orangeism. For all these reasons the leader of the Opposition in the Dominion parliament was treading on dangerous ground when he justified his vote on the Jesuits' Estate Bill before such an audience.

A CALMING EFFECT.

There is little doubt but the words of Mr. Laurier will have a calming effect on the people of Ontario, although they will not be sufficient to allay the agitation which has arisen in the country. One thing, however, was made manifest at the meeting, and that was that the Equal Rights party is likely to divide on the grounds of politics, when the time for active work arises. A few independent men, more or less under clerical influence, are certain to stay to their pledges, but the politicians will find a good reason to vote for their party when the time arrives. This was well demonstrated when the malcontents at the meeting first cheered the present administration and afterwards Col. O'Brien, one of the leading orators of the Equal Rights party and one of "the noble thirteen." Mr. Laurier quickly perceived this, and asked why they first applauded the government and in the same breath cheered the man who was opposed to the government, and moved a want of confidence motion against them. The Tory-Equal Rights men again forgot themselves and hissed the Globe—no doubt on general political grounds—notwithstanding that on this question the Liberal organ agreed with them. The speaker also took advantage of this point. The manly way this subject—the Jesuit question—was handled; the admiration the speaker declared he had for British Liberalism as opposed to the Liberalism of France; his determination to give ample justice to all sections of the community, although said to be dangerous citizens, as the Jesuits were by some; his appeal for a better feeling to exist between the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, thereby carrying out the terms and idea of Confederation, were all listened to with marked attention and must have a lasting effect on those who heard him. His disclaimer that there was any intention by the preamble of the bill to attribute civil authority to the Pope, and consequently detract from the sovereignty of the Queen, was well received. He (Laurier) belonged to a party who had fought the Ultramontanes for over thirty years, because they interfered in civil matters, and extended undue influence to secure the election of Conservative candidates who supported Sir John Macdonald. The Conservative party of Ontario accepted all the assistance they received from the Ultramontane party without a protest. There need never be any apprehension, he said, of the people of Quebec not agreeing with the Christian precept to "render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and unto God the things that are God's," which was rigidly enforced by the Catholic church.

THE TRADE QUESTION.

Very naturally, and as was to be expected, the Liberal leader closed his speech with a declaration that his party was bound to stand or fall by the question of Unrestricted Reciprocity. He hinted that there was a possibility of the Conservatives stealing the Liberal programme in this respect, but if they did so they would secure his (Laurier's) assistance in bringing it about.

A PROTESTANT OPINION.

The member for Broome, Quebec, in the Dominion House, is Mr. Fisher, a leading prohibitionist, a skilled agriculturist, and generally acknowledged to be the best looking man in the Commons. For all this he is extremely modest and thoroughly honest in expressing his political views. He accompanied Mr. Laurier in his present tour in Ontario, and followed the latter in speaking in Toronto. As one of those who represents a mixed population in his own county, he was able to speak of what he knew, and bore testimony to the passing of the Jesuits Act in the Quebec Legislature without any protest from the Protestant minority. In fact they unanimously voted for it. It may be said that Mr. Fisher was one of the historical 188.

ONTARIO'S PREMIER.

Hon Oliver Mowat is perfectly at home when addressing a Toronto audience, and it is needless to say that on this occasion he was well received. He appeared to know just how much to say to satisfy his friends and not to give a handle to his opponents to use against him. "We may not all agree with Mr. Laurier on the Jesuit question," was about all that the little Premier said on this burning topic. He dealt at some length with the charges made against him by his political opponents that he favored Catholics at the expense of Protestants. SHARTOWN.

FREE SCHOOLS IN ENGLAND.

Receives a Boost from Visit of Emperor of Germany.

London, Oct. 14.—One good is likely to result from the visit of the Emperor of Germany to England recently. Among many questions he asked in his nervous, incisive way, was one as to the percentage of illiterate persons in England. An approximate estimate being given him, he bluntly expressed his surprise at the existence of such a condition of popular ignorance in a country so wealthy and so high in the scale of civilization. His comments were repeated to the Queen, who lost no time in laying the matter before her advisers and requesting them to suggest a remedy. The persistent agitators who have for so many years kept the question of free schools before the public, feel at last that there is a prospect of seeing their labors crowned with success; but they complain bitterly of the indifference of most people of high position.

GILBERT & SULLIVAN

To Shortly Produce a New Light Opera of Venetian Character.

London, Oct. 14.—Gilbert & Sullivan will come before the public the latter part of November, at the Savoy theatre, with a new light opera which is still without a name. The subject of the new opera is Venetian. The Doge is the principal character. By ties of birth and association he is an aristocrat; at heart he is thoroughly republican. He goes among the people in disguise and urges them to rise and unseat the Doge. A council of ten finally oblige him to take an oath to kill a man of the people. The populace then compel him to swear to kill the Doge. The principal character is apparently on the brink of a precipice, but is rescued by Gilbert in his usual happy manner. The new opera will not differ from other efforts of Gilbert. A council of ten will have a thumb twiddling chorus, and a lot of Venetian nobles will sing "We are young men of Venice," and play at lawn tennis in jackets of various hues.

LOVERS OF COGNAC

Who Will Find a Piece of News of Interest to Them.

London, Oct. 14.—Lamenters for the bygone days of genuine Cognac may derive some hope from the announcement that desolate districts of that once-famous locality are being replanted with American vines and there is a prospect that in less than a generation the Gallic exporters will be able to send to his customers in North and South America something besides flavored potato spirits. These honest dealers have lately been thrown into spasms of virtuous indignation by accidentally learning that Italian merchants have been guilty of the reprehensible conduct of shipping their wine, taxable at 20 per cent., to Trieste, and thence into France, as Hungarian and Dalmatian juice of the grape, which pays only 2 per cent.

A CONCESSION MAY BE GRANTED

Two Negroes Planning to Colonize Portions of Mexico.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 11.—Advices from Mexico say that the bill to grant a concession to Henry C. Ferguson and William H. Ellis, the two colored men from Texas who propose to colonize lands in the states of Oaxaca, Guerrero, Vera Cruz, Michoacan and San Luis Potosi, with negroes from Texas and other American states, has passed the lower house of congress with but one dissenting vote, and has gone to the senate. It is believed that the bill will pass and be signed by President Diaz.

Ferguson and Ellis expect that 20,000 negroes from Texas alone will move to Mexico and raise cotton on these lands, and that many thousands of industrious blacks, skilled in the cultivation of cotton, will follow them from the states east of the Mississippi river.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Foot Racing at Wellington—Live Bird Shooting.

J. M. Bell, of Tacoma, won the live bird match at Whatcom over Zeno Doty for $100 a side. Bell killed 22 out of a possible 25 and Doty killed 24 out of 25, but two fell a few feet outside of the boundary. They are arranging another shoot.

FAULKNER WINS.

The wrestling match between Faulkner and Connors, which came off at Tacoma on Saturday night, was won by the former with two straight falls. After the match Faulkner was challenged by Chas. Eyton, champion light-weight of Australia. Faulkner accepted.

FOOT RACING.

J. Love defeated E. Bailey in a 100 yard race at Nanaimo on Saturday by four inches. The stakes were $100 a side.

A match has been arranged between J. Sugget and W. Cook, for a 100 yard race, for $100 a side, the race to take place at Wellington next Saturday night.

Where the Doctrine Came From.

Col. Bob Ingersoll said in a recent speech to a farmers' convention: I want the farmers' wives to learn how to cook. So few people know how to cook. Anybody can make a lawyer, it don't take much of a man to make a president but a good cook is the greatest thing on earth. I believe the doctrin of eternal punishment came from poor cooking. Dyspepsia is chiefly caused by poor cooks.

The Vancouver Steamer.

The steamer Islander left Vancouver at 2:35 this afternoon. She should arrive here early this evening.

NEWS OF THE WORLD.

Terrible Street Car Accident—Nine Persons Killed and Many Injured.

Stevens Fails to Find Stanley—Edmund Yates Converses About Royalty.

New York, Oct. 15.—Edmund Yates' London cable to the Tribune says: The report about the Prince of Wales' health are wildly exaggerated. To say he is in rugged health would not be accurate, but he is, for all practical purposes, perfectly strong and able to do nearly as much as he used to do ten years ago. His leg is much better and he can walk and ride a little, and he is now much more careful as to his diet and smoking than formerly. There is really no cause for the alarmist rumors which are flying about.

The Channal squadron has had a royal time at Copenhagen, where the people overwhelmed the officers with their hospitality. On Thursday, all the admirals and officers in command were ordered to Fredensburg to dine with the King. Some little amusement was caused by the Prince of Wales bringing Prince George before the Admiral on a charge of desertion.

The King of Italy has been hunting chamois and ibex in the mountains and valleys of Piedmont, but stormy weather considerably interfered with His Majesty's sport, and at the close of the third day the bag had only seven chamois and nine ibex. King Humbert's ibex reserve is the only one in Europe. It is in the Alpine region and known as the Grand Paradise. He has four small shooting lodges on the mountains accessible only by mule paths.

The payment of the debts of the late King of Bavaria will not be completed until 1895. They are now being paid out of the Bavarian civil lists at the rate of £55,000 a year.

Prince Lucien Bonaparte's numerous friends will be glad to hear he has succeeded to a fortune of £30,000. The story of the windfall may be fairly described as a romance. In 1842 Lord Dudley Coutts Stuart, son of the first Marquis of Bute, and M. P. for Arundel at the time of the Reform Bill, married Christina Alexandria Egypt, daughter of Lucien Bonaparte, Prince of Canino. Lord Dudley Stuart died in 1854, having survived the Princess seven years. For many years her only son, Paul Amadeus Francis Coutts Stuart had led the life of a recluse in Brompton, unknown and almost forgotten. He recently died and his solicitor called one day at Norfolk Terrace and informed Prince Lucien that his nephew, whom he had never seen, had bequeathed him his whole property.

STREET CAR ACCIDENT.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 15.—A terrible accident happened on the main street incline plane at 12:15 p. m. A car had reached the top of the incline when the rope broke, and with nothing to hold the car it came rushing down and ran into a passenger station and office below. Nine passengers on board the car were killed and three probably fatally injured. The killed, so far as learned, are: Michael Kagles, Mrs. Cues and Mrs. Shafer.

A LEGAL TRUST.

London, Oct. 15.—The Court of Appeals has decided the steamship combination or trust to be legal.

STRIKE.

London, Oct. 15.—The engineers and stokers on the ocean steamers at Antwerp have struck for higher wages.

WRECKED.

Ventura, Cala., Oct. 15.—The oil schooner Cæsar, Capt. Burns, of San Diego, E. S. Babcock, jr., owner, which loaded here yesterday with thirty thousand gallons of oil, broke from her moorings this morning, and is now on the beach. She will probably go to pieces.

SAFE INTO PORT.

New York, Oct. 15.—The steamship Italia, before reported disabled, has arrived in tow of the steamship Gellert. The Italia had a rough passage and broke a shaft on Monday when seven hundred miles east of Sable Island. The shaft was lashed and during the next three days the vessel made three hundred miles, when she was picked up by the Gellert.

PROGRESSIVE CHINA.

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—A syndicate of Chinese has been formed in this city for the purpose of introducing electric lighting into all large cities of China. The company expects to gain important concessions from the Chinese government. It is believed that some American capitalists are interested in the scheme.

WILL RECOVER.

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 15.—Engineer Thomas, who was scalded in the land slide which wrecked his train a short distance beyond Delmar on Sunday morning, and who it was believed was fatally injured, will recover.

HUGE CASTING.

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—The stern of the coast defence vessel which is being built by the Union Iron Works was successfully cast yesterday. It weighs 16,000 pounds.

The whaling bark Stamboul arrived from Behring Sea this morning with 600 barrels of oil and 7,000 pounds of whalebone.

GOD AND THE SINNERS KNEW.

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 14.—A sensation was created in Chambers county several days since by the arrest of the Rev. J. H. M. Duran, a Methodist minister, charged with passing counterfeit money. He was lodged in jail and his trial came off yesterday. He admitted that he had passed the spurious money but proved that he had got it out of the contribution box. There were eight silver dollars in the box, and seven of them were counterfeits. He said God and the sinners who passed the coins were the only ones who knew. The case was dismissed on account of the officers' inability to get absent witnesses.

STUBBS GOES HIGHER.

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—J. C. Stubbs, for many years traffic manager of the Southern Pacific railway company, has been tendered and has accepted the position of second vice-president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway.

COULDN'T FIND STANLEY.

Zanzibar, Oct. 15.—Stevens, the bicyclist, who, after making a tour of the world on his wheel, was sent to Africa after Stanley, has returned here, having failed to find any trace whatever of the explorer. The impression is that Stanley is availing himself of the large amount of ivory which existed in Central Africa.

A GAY FORGER.

New York, Oct. 15.—It transpired this morning that Edwin R. Lorillard, reported in last night's dispatches as arrested at Fort Erie, Ont., on a charge of forgery, was the former groom of Maude Granger, the actress. Lorillard retained the check from the auctioneers here for the sale of the horses of Miss Granger. He forged her name at the bank and collected the amount of the check and fled to Canada. Inspector Byrnes, however, had been informed of the crime, and telegraphed ahead of the fugitive, so that he was captured. Lorillard has consented to return to New York without waiting for extradition formalities.

SHOT AN ERRING WIFE.

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—Antonio L. Mendoza, a barber about 24 years of age, shot his young wife, Maggie, in the head this afternoon and mortally wounded her. She had run away from him three times and had been living with A. Larsen, who conducts a well known family resort. Mendoza was arrested. From letters found on his person it was evident that he had determined to kill Larsen and then take his own life. The wounded woman died at one o'clock this afternoon and Mendoza was charged with murder.

UNTRUE REPORTS.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Bishop Keane, has recently been in consultation at Rome with the pope, and is now preparing for the opening of a Catholic university, says the reports of the Pope's ill health are untrue.

RAISING RATES.

New York, Oct. 15.—Dow Jones' news agency has issued the following: The Chicago and St. Paul lines are still working on a plan to advance rates in the northwest so soon as navigation closes. Chairmen Hayden, Blanchard and Faithern, and Traffic Manager Olds, of the C. P. R., are to meet in New York at an early date to agree on a schedule of rates to St. Paul and Chicago. It is stated that the Canadian Pacific may grant differentials.

LUCKY NUMBERS.

New Orleans, Oct. 15.—63,856 wins the capital prize of $300,000; 71,323 wins second prize; 16,228 and 3,397 each draw $5,000; 91,454 wins $25,000; 19,233 and 45,728 also draw $5,000 each.

ELOPEMENT.

New York, Oct. 15.—Among the passengers arriving by the steamship Aurania last night were John Burns and Mary Lehnut. The latter is the daughter of Major Lehnut owning extensive estates in County Wexford, Ireland. Burns was a gardener of the estate. The pair eloped to this country and will be detained at Castle Garden by the request of her relatives and await their arrival here.

ITALIAN UNITY.

London, Oct. 15.—Prime Minister Crispi was present at a grand banquet in Palermo yesterday evening. In reply to a toast to the ministry he made a speech in defence of Italian unity and independence. He declared it was necessary to combat the enemies of national unity and spiritual liberty. Complaints or threats, he said, were fruitless. Rome rose and ruled before a temporal papacy existed, and she would continue to remain Italian without it. He closed with a stirring peroration in which he exhorted Italians to face the world and not repeat in name Civis Romanus sum. Tumultous enthusiasm greeted the speech.

BISMARCK'S VOICE.

Berlin, Oct. 15—Prince Bismarck's voice, style and delivery has been perfectly reproduced by a phonograph recently sent to him, and copies of it will be distributed by Mr. Edison's agents to important institutions throughout Germany.

POWDER MILL BLOWN UP.

Schenectady, Oct. 15.—It is rumored here that Schaghticoke powder mills were blown up this afternoon, killing one man and injuring others.

GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 15.—The Novoe Vremya in an inspired article offers the friendship of Russia to Germany and relies upon Prince Bismarck to maintain peace.

ANNEXATION OF HAWAII.

The Proposition Declined by the United States Journals.

London, Oct. 15.—The Times says that in view of the amount of English capital invested in the Hawaiian islands England could not see them pass into the hands of any foreign power with indifference, but that their acquisition by the United States would be regarded with more equanimity than their spoliation by any European power, to which the British government would never submit.

The whole tone of the article points to a desire that the United States government may see its way clear to gobble up the islands, and the writer's intention is evidently to encourage Uncle Sam to adopt that course.

If the present Tory government, of which the Times is to some extent the mouthpiece, has any axe to grind by inducing the United States to depart from its traditional policy of minding its own business, few people on this side of the water expect to see it succeed. Well informed men here understand that a scheme for the acquisition of territory thousands of miles distant from its shores is not likely to find favor in America.

Some Proverbs of the Sea.

United Service Gazette.—"No man will be a sailor," said Dr. Johnson, "who has contrivance enough to get himself into jail."

Dr. Johnson was, however, a landsman, while many of the following expressions are the opinions of sea-faring people: "He who trusts himself on the sea is either a fool or he is poor or he wants to die." This Gallicism is no stronger than the following saying by the maritime Dutchman: "Better on the heath with an old cart than at sea with a new ship." "Better walk poor than to sail rich," says the Spaniard, and in the same spirit his Italian neighbor responds, "praise the sea, but stay on shore." Another maritime nation, the Danish, gives us this strong opinion: "One penny is better on land than ten at sea." German woodsmen say: "The sea has no branches (to cling to); therefore it is better to stay on shore," and the French Rosties agree with them, "Admire the sea as much as you will, but don't stir from the cow sheds." The Arab fears the sea as much to-day as he did in the fifteenth century, when he thought the hand of Satan would arise from the "sea of Darkness" to seize his frail bark. "It is better," says he, "to hear the belchings of the camel than the prayers of the fish;" and he further outlines the dangerous nature of the element when he says, "The sea has a tender stomach, but a head hard as wood." A sometimes week a century old has it thus: "The ship is a fool, for it moves continually; the sailor is a fool, for he changes his mind with every breeze; the water is a fool, for it is never still; the wind is a fool, for it blows without ceasing. Let us make an end at once of navigation."

A well-known proverb tells us, "He who would learn to pray should go to sea;" another in vogue among the maritime and adventurous Dutch reads, "He who does not venture upon the sea knows not what God is."

The Russians say, "When you walk, pray once; when you go to sea, pray twice; when you go to be married, pray three times."

THE OTHER SIR JOHN.

He Considers the Jesuit Snarl Straightened Out.

[Special to The Times.]

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—To-day was appointed as the day when the Equal Rights delegates would appear before the Privy Council here and argue the legality of the Jesuits Estate law. Sir John Thompson says that as the Protestant committee of education in Quebec have accepted the $60,000 awarded that body, there is now nothing to argue and consequently there is no use for holding the meeting.

FAST STEAMSHIP LINE.

The Andersons Give Up the Fast Atlantic Scheme.

[Special to The Times.]

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—The government has received a cablegram notifying them that the Andersons have been unable to carry out the terms of the contract with the Dominion for a fast line of steamships between Plymouth, England, and Halifax, and therefore they have given the scheme up. Hon. G. E. Foster says the particulars of the affair are coming over by mail. In official circles it is stated that the Canadian Pacific will now take the matter up on its own account and place a fleet of ocean greyhounds in the Atlantic to run in connection with its own road and the Canadian Pacific steamers plying between British Columbia and the Orient.

Eli Lequime returned from the south this morning.

James Burns, who has been spending three weeks in the vicinity of San Jose and Santa Clara, was a passenger on the Walla Walla this morning.

Miss Mary Crossen returned by the steamer from San Francisco to-day after a lengthened absence.

Hon. Henry Blackman, mayor of the flourishing city of Heppner, Oregon, is a guest at the Driard. Mr. Blackman's father was in business in this city in the early sixties, and the present visitor has not been here since '63. Since then he has climbed the ladder of fame and success, and is to-day recognized as one of Heppner's leading business men and a prospective candidate for high political honors.

Mr. Justice Crease has been granted six months leave of absence.

Mrs. Watkins, of the Royal Hotel, Nanaimo, is in the city seeking medical attendance from an injury to her hand.

The Last and the Next Fifty Years.

"Mr. Gladstone lately said that if he could himself have chosen the period of his own life he should have selected out of all history his last fifty years. His reason was that the last half century has been one of emancipation. Serfs have been freed. Slaves have been manumitted. Disabilities have been removed from many unprivileged classes. Education and suffrage have been extended. Moral reforms have been vastly advanced. After the period of emancipation will come a time of reconstruction. The next fifty years, Mr. Gladstone thinks, will be a period of experiments and perhaps of charlatanry."

Henry George.

Henry George delivered an address before the Manhattan Single Tax Club the other night, and in conclusion he announced his willingness to answer any questions which might be propounded. In response to the question whether "choice of candidates was not important," he replied: "Not at all," he quickly answered. "First get people to believe our ideas, and it will be easy enough to get politicians to support them. Candidates are always ready to represent whatever is popular. It is impossible to have a pure party. If the twelve apostles started a party and people voted with them all the politicians would flock to their side. They could not keep them out.

THE RESTRICTION ACT.

The incredulity our contemporary manifests with respect to the attitude of the Imperial government as to the Restriction Act, would be a subject for laughter only that it is convenient for that organ just now to affect verdancy. Seizing hold of a savage article in the Examiner, or some other California paper, in which it is assumed that the Chinese question is a United States question, and that the United States might be compelled to have something to say as to Canada's Chinese policy, the Colonist attempts to show that such is unwarranted by the situation, hoping thus to relieve Mr. EARLE from a declaration of principles. This is the thinnest bit of casuistry the Colonist has sprung on the public for some time. Says the Colonist, with an affected ingeniousness that brings tears to the eyes almost, "the government organs in the east have not yet sounded the key note to the repeal of the act." We ask in all seriousness if there is any probability of their so doing. Is there any likelihood that so shrewd a politician as Sir JOHN will permit this question to be discussed in advance, when he knows that if the act is repealed the procedure must take the form of a snap judgment? No, there is not the slightest probability that the advocates of the repeal of the act will permit it to become a campaign issue. They know that their candidates cannot be elected on that platform. If the electors are content to permit Mr. EARLE, or any other candidate, to enter parliament unpledged in this important matter, it is all right, but it will not prevent us from thinking that the electors are committing a serious mistake.

LESSONS OF THE MANŒUVRES.

Rear-Admiral MAYNE, of the English navy, writes a long letter to the London Times on the "lessons of the manœuvres," and if we interpret him correctly, although the tenor of his article is decidedly optimistic, the actual effectiveness of English battle ships depends largely on the ineffectiveness of those which may prove their antagonists. "The first and greatest lesson of the manœuvers," says the Admiral, "is unquestionably that speed is everything." For instance, as when on the morning the "enemy" was sighted in the shape of the Camperdown, Hero and Immortalite the signal was given to chase, and off went the Rodney, Howe, Warspite, Conqueror and Neptune. But in three or four hours the Conqueror and Neptune were left far behind, and had the enemy not separated his fast ships, or if he had one more battle ship he might have turned the tables by capturing his pursuers, and have reached "Queenstown long before the slow squadron could have got within range." That length is inseparable from speed the Admiral mentions the Cunard steamers, which range from 460 to 500 feet in length, and lastly the Teutonic 582 feet, these being nearly 200 feet longer than the war ships. The insufficient length of the war ships was manifest in the case of the Warspite, one of the best of her class, while driving against anything like a sea. When a wave a little larger than the rest came, down went the bows, and up went the stern in such a way as to materially impair her speed." The next "prominent defect," the Admiral points out, "lies in the engines and boilers." The boilers are not large enough nor the engines strong enough. Chasing for three or four hours is "no good." In actual war a chase might extend over the period of several days, and the machinery in such an event was inadequate to stand the strain. Forced draught, the Admiral remarks, is an "invention of the Evil One," its present purpose being "to give an erroneous estimate of speed on trial trips," and to facilitate the breaking down of the motive power. In regard to "construction," the Admiral is of the opinion that all seagoing battle ships "should have a high freeboard." The lower decks of the ships of the Conqueror and Hero class are "almost uninhabitable in a sea way, and what they would become after the big guns had been fired over them in a chase must be left to the imagination." Adverting to the "big guns," the Admiral is strongly condemnatory. "It is merciful," he remarks, "that the Admiralty have decided against the 110 ton guns Even 67 ton guns are, in Admiral MAYNE's opinion, too large, and indeed he unequivocally expresses himself to the effect "that no guns should be placed on board a ship that cannot be man handled in case of a break down of the machinery." Further, as showing the superfluity of heavy ordnance, it is more than powerful enough to pierce thirty inches of armor, and no ship carries that, besides, the effect on the ship from the discharges has never yet been fully tested. Then again, the multiplicity of guns in use on the ships the admiral disapproves of. "We have," he says, "6 pounder quick firing guns and 4 pounder quick firing guns. If the 3 pounder is large enough, why have the 6 pounder; and if that is not large enough why have it at all? The trouble with having so many different kinds of guns on board ship is that in action it is impossible but that the utmost confusion would prevail as to supplying the guns with ammunition. Next, the Admiral places no reliance in the use of torpedoes, and finally to summarize the "lessons of the manœuvres," concludes that "greater speed, which means greater length and simpler armament, are the prime essentials of the modern battle ship." But as another feature of the lesson with reference to speed P. H. COLOMB writes to the Times "that we can now depend less on speed than in the days of sailing ships. The speed of ships seems to be less permanent than in days of sailing ships and much more liable to fail at the worst possible moment." Such wholesale criticisms as these, coming from men who know what they are talking about, brings vividly to memory the strictures on the navy by Lord CHAS. BERESFORD, and for which a great outcry went up. There is also another feature about these disclosures to which we cannot help alluding, and that is that they largely corroborate the adverse comment of the press. The press, without any knowledge of nautical affairs, machinery and ordnance beyond that based on common sense, have never found much comfort in the complicated seagoing organism known as the battle ship. Admiral MAYNE and P. H. COLOMB now justify journalistic foreboding. The only comfort we can extract from the situation, as the Times editorially remarks, is that the navies of other powers are probably as defective as those which steamed past the Emperor WILLIAM.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The members of the international conference which met at Washington have been taking an excursion through the states at the nation's expense. The Secretary of State, before starting out ordered that not a wheel should be turned on Sunday.

The Pittsburg Dispatch, noting a report that a recent invoice of imports on the African coast consists of one missionary and 50,000 cases of cases of liquor, says that this is an indication that "Africa is learning the arts of civilization almost to a point where she might cast a vote on prohibition.

A return relating to the trade of the Australasian colonies for last year, prepared by the Government Statist of Victoria, shows that in all of these colonies except one exports and imports were fairly well balanced. The exception is Victoria, whose imports amounted to £23,972,134 and her exports to only £12,853,763, her total trade per head being nearly £36. New South Wales imported goods to the value of £20,885,557, and her exports amounted to £20,850,715, while her total trade per head was considerably over £39. It is only fair to Victoria to state that the arrival of goods for the Melbourne Exhibition swelled the import figures to some extent, but even in 1887 there was a very great difference between exports and imports, the former being £11,351,145, and the latter £19,022,151. This seems an extraordinary state of affairs in a colony whose trade policy is that of "protection to home industries."

F. W. GALTON proposed to the Congress of Psychological Physiology a first-rate conundrum. He told of an aquarium divided into two parts by a plate of glass perfectly transparent, and therefore invisible to the fish. In one division there was a pike, in the other a gudgeon. Every time the pike saw the gudgeon he rushed to seize him, but every time he was stopped by the plate of glass. He did not learn soon, but for several months made this rush and bruised his nose against the glass. Finally, he came to understand that for some reason inscrutable to his intelligence he could not seize the gudgeon, and then he gave it up. He now swam about seeing the gudgeon constantly, but paying no attention to it. Then the plate of glass was removed. This made no difference, the pike did not attempt to take the gudgeon. He had acquired the habit of leaving the gudgeon alone. The conundrum was: Would his descendants inherit that habit or possess the original impulse of their kind?

The hatred of the "Gringoes," engendered by the Mexican war, crops out every once in a while, and the Pan-American Congress is producing a quantity slightly in excess of what has been the case for some years past. The "Trait d'Union," published in the City of Mexico," speaking of the Congress, charges that the purpose of the United States is to make itself "one single colossal power, covering an entire continent, forbidding access to the remainder of the world, and working this immense empire to the profit of the States of the north." Doubtless there is a great deal of truth in this statement, but it is curiously indicative of ignorance of history on the part of the Mexican journal. The Mexican war was an unjust one, nevertheless the United States paid Mexico between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 for California and New Mexico, a mere bagatelle in the light of subsequent events, but at the time thought to be a reckless investment. Then again the Northern States were opposed to the war, and coming down to a late period, it was these same States which secured the independence of Mexico against France. If the remarks of the Mexican journal were simply an ebullition of journalistic spite they would not require to be heeded in connection with the Pan-American Congress; but as the feeling evidenced by the "Trait d'Union" is general throughout Mexico, and as this feeling is common to a large proportion of Spanish Americans, it would appear as if BLAINE had reckoned without his host, and that the Congress, though a spectacular success, will be a failure in so far as its real animus is concerned.

The Oregonian, which has always opposed United States sovereignty over Behring sea, and which when once having undertaken to bolster up a cause or to down it, is indefatigable, adverts to an "English pamphlet widely circulated in the United States as well as in England, devoted to the examination of the Behring sea question." The pamphlet points out that the claim of the United States to the "exclusive navigation of the sea is merely a reminiscence of Russian diplomatic impostures." It shows that when Russia issued the ukase closing the sea, "she had neither the intention nor the means to support it, but pretended that in claiming the North Pacific she was only carrying out the principle by which the Sea of Marmora is allowed to be a sea of that description. Hence Russia's grand idea in setting up this claim was a diplomatic imposture. The sea of Marmora had been closed against her by the consent of Europe, and this was her method of retaliation." It follows from this, therefore, that Russia could not sell Behring sea, because she never possessed it. In the light of such revelations as these, there need be no apprehensions as to the ultimate solution of the Behring sea affair. The closing of the sea in the first place was a democratic electioneering job, and doubtless not a few of the leaders of this remarkable political organization had their palms crossed by the Alaska Commercial Company's dollars. It will gradually dawn on the minds of the American politicians that if the Irish vote cannot be had without bullying England it had better be let alone. Nothing is gained at the best by this kind of politics, and it might lead to disastrous consequences.

NATURE OF AFRICA.

The Only Unconquered Country—What a Few Centuries Will See.

Africa will tempt the avarice of every race on the globe within the next five centuries it may become one of the great factors of civilization, crowded with nationalities which may possibly hold the balance of political power and dictate the policy of the rest of Christendom. It is the only large area on the globe that remains unconquered. On its Mediterranean sea-coast are a few tangled tassels of the robe of civilization—Morocco, Algeria, Tripoli. On the west is the struggling Republic of Liberia, which has never received the credit it has so hardly earned. On the south the British have captured a few square miles with valuable harbors, and on the east are scattered hardy colonists with their herds of cattle. Still, Africa is comparatively unknown as yet. Fifty years ago it was the Dark Continent; but travellers have recently explored its inner depths in part, and come back with tales of inexhaustible resources, of mineral wealth, of a fertile soil capable of supplying breadstuffs to the people of the whole planet. The merely tentative commercial relations with Africa which now exist have resulted so favorably that pioneers are all agog with excitement. The dream of the future is a golden one and the prospect is alluring. The total value of exports and imports by the white men who live along its fringe of sea-coast is estimated at nearly $400,000,000. British trade is worth $125,000,000 of this sum, while France claims as her share something like $100,000,000. The interest of Americans in Africa is so insignificant that it scarcely deserves mention. What bright and glorious visions will soon attract the genius of men to that last remnant of undeveloped territory! Within the next five hundred years that entire continent will become the heritage of enterprise. Great cities, huge manufacturing centres, will be found on its rivers, which resemble the Amazon and the Mississippi. Wheat fields, cotton fields, coffee plantations, will be found everywhere. Its forests of valuable timber will yield to the woodman's axe, and sawmills on every stream will make the music of wealth and progress.

REQUISITION

To THOMAS EARLE, Esq.

DEAR SIR:

As E. CROW BAKER, Esq., M. P., has resigned his seat in the Dominion House of Commons, we, the undersigned electors of Victoria City and District, beg you to allow yourself to be placed in nomination as a candidate for the vacant seat.

We do this because we feel that at the present time it is imperative that Victoria should have the best men that can possibly be got to look after her interests; and as your business capacity, your large interests here, and your general fitness for the position, are so well known to us, we hereby pledge you our hearty support if an election is necessary.

THE LORE OF HAIDA.

L—LEGEND OF THE ANGELS.

The women of the tribe of Yen, who dwelt on Massett Inlet, strove in ancient times to keep themselves pure. They banded themselves in a league of honor to hold themselves celebate and clean. They left their homes and year after year wandered on the rocky coasts over against the ocean, living upon fish and berries, and at the coming of any canoe they fled into the woods to shelter themselves from temptation and the sight of men. In vain were they sought by those who looked for wives, in vain sought on rocky islands or along the borders of the woods. Pure as the whiteness of the ocean surf, free as the white drifting clouds above, coy as the deer, shrinking into the uttermost solitudes of the forests,—the very mother lap of Nature. In chastity and silence, in forbearance and love, dwelt they of the holy league of honor, the women of the tribe of Yen. And when they had given up all and surrendered their hearts and lives, and thought no more of evil and the world, the Great Spirit came to them. A golden chain was cast about His neck and on His lips were holy songs of love, and round about Him the souls of women of the Haida dead, angels pure as fire. The angels bade them learn the hymns of the blessed, that they might sing them and were left over; but first they must prepare their lives and make them holy in the sight of heaven. They must govern their tempers. They might make their aprons of the bark of the cedar to shield them from thorns and brambles in the woods; and yet awhile must they live on earth until a time should come for them to be lifted upwards. And so they lived in the solemn aisles of the woods and the angels loved with them, and the Great Spirit appeared to them. And hunters who had wandered up from the sea, and they who still sought those that they had loved and lost, came at times on white and lovely stones shaped in the shapes of women at their rest. Then they knew that they were the women of Yen and went back from the holy place sorrowing.

One day the women said to the angel chief when he came to them: "Why should we stay on earth and angels come to us? Let us go to the place on high whence you came." But he said, "You are not all holy yet. Wait still a little while longer on the earth until you are fully tried."

Hunters and seekers in the woods where by the lovely stones in human form heard strange sweet sounds among the ferns, soft voices in the wind-stirred leaves, and echoes of immortal music down the aisles of trees.

At last the angels came together to greet the holy women; for the time was come, and clean in heart and mind they were prepared for that great journey to the heavens, of which in years of waiting they had dreamed. And so the angels bore them to a place where clouds came down about them from above, and looking down they saw the mountains fall away from them and the land of Haida, and the boundless sea grow dim and vanish like a dream in the time of a man's awakening. Then their eyes opened as from sleep and they were in heaven.

For long they lived contented; but ill rumors arose—for after long vigil there is a danger in over-confidence of strength—and one by one fell to brooding of some slight, some unkind word, or attempt to curb their wanton will. And in a breach between them and their peace; for peace and love fought on the other side in that war that shook the outraged heavens. Half the angels sided with the league and half warred against them and triumphed for the cause of justice. Then the holy angels said to the league of Yen: "Before casting you down to earth we shall mark you that you may all be known to us again." So they were marked and hurled down out of heaven and all who had sided with them in the war.

But although fallen, the league of the women of Yen was not dissolved, and all the members met in their ancient home in the forest and there communed with the vanquished angels. But the strong angels above looked down with pity on the women who must in time die in the woods childless and without hope; and the great angel said he would go and save them. So he took the part of a bad spirit and went robed as a beautiful woman to the village of Yen and gave to the young men the promise of wives and children. So did he work upon their hearts that they set out in canoes and came to the place where the women had been wont to walk before they fled back from the coast, and there they encamped. And then the angel went to the women in the forest and told them that he sorrowed for their state, that he had fought beside them in the war. "But I am stronger hearted than these angels with me, and I will lead you now and be with you in your trouble." And when the women looked upon the angel as he stood in his disguise before them, they saw that he was lovelier than any, and they made the bearer of these words their queen. She told them that she did not like the place and all the bitter memories of the woods, and led them down to the sea coast, trembling at what they did, and fearing in their hearts lest men should find them. And yet they hoped it would be so. So they all came at last to the sea shore, and the young men fell down and worshipped them. Then said the queen: "Behold, the angels above have sought you in marriage and have not won you despite all their longing. But these men have been waiting many years and yet are faithful. Then let them be branded with the mark of the angels' anger, and let us wed them and be faithful to them, as they were to us." And so saying the women of the league of Yen went back to the earthly life and the song of the angels has been lost to man. Even to this day the people of the land of Haida tattoo the marks of the angels' wrath on wrist and breast and face; but the faithful dead, even bearing the marks of wrath, are not barred back from the place whither the spirits of men were taken.

IV.—THE PRAYER FOR WOMEN.

There was a time when men descended from the stock of the Son of Heaven had married the country about Skidegate, but there were but few women to mate with them and bear them children. And many of them out fishing on the western coasts spoke of the matter and how earnestly they longed for women to be with them for their wives. And then they prayed to the Raven that he would pity them. The Raven came and told them that for the good of all some must suffer, that half of them should be made women to serve the rest. After much disagreement lots were drawn and half the men were landed on the beach. The Raven bade those who were chosen to take abalone shells, beautiful with the many hints of mother of pearl, and to hold these, each man a shell before his body. Then as they held the shells before them they were changed, their nakedness was covered and they became women. So the men came to them and wooed and won them and they married and lived happily ever after.

V—THE CHIDING OF THE WATERS

A man went away to the hunting up Massett Inlet, and left his young wife in the house alone. And while he was away she bore a child to him. Then he came back from the chase by night, stole into the dark house, and crept softly to where she lay lest he should disturb her in her sleep. He bent over her, looking down tenderly in her face, when to his horror he found a head nestled in her breast, and heard soft breathing in response to her's, and felt the warmth from a form sleeping in his bed, with her who was his rightful wife. Mad with sharp anguish, he lifted up her hand, the hand he had taken to kiss, lifted up the hand and bit it to the bone. She woke with a great cry and raised herself on her knees, then to her feet, and held the child before her, and was dazed. Bewildered, she asked him why he came to her, like a dog to bite her, when she lay nestling her child in its first sleep. He muttered out his double, his repentance, his love, and then she understood. Blazing with wrath she towered over him, and did now he dared insult her with his doubts, cursed him, cursed him in the name of the Raven, and all the terrors of the Great Deep that he should be a laughing-stock from generation to generation, called on Him the Creator, the Raven Omnipotent, bade him strike down, strike him and spare her not, strike him and slay. Then did He the Raven strike and slay the man, and changed him to a stone, lapped by the rising tides upon the shore. But the women with the child ran down into the sea and perished. And now the Indians pass along the shore, and see the craven that is turned to stone, and echo the chiding waves, and laugh at the memory of his deed.

The waters lap in therising tide against the cold stone, with broken hearted murmurs sorrow over him, ever troubled, never resting, never forgiving, chiding in the measure of her sorrow, from generation into generation.

VI—THE PILLAR OF VICTORY.

From the interior, perhaps from the Yukon Valley, came a race who conquered the woodland Indians of the mainland and had reduced the Chilkats and other tribes to subjection. And these strangers used in old times to come to the land of Haida, walking across the sounds with peculiar shoes that were able to bear them upon the water. Parties of Haida Indians found strange camp fires while they were away hunting but for a long time could not account for them. Once a large party came to hunt bears on the Islands which they trapped with poison. But some Haida seal hunters came upon their fires and tracked them, after which they summoned all the tribes. Preparations were made for war. They met the strangers on the open sea and their fleet entered the battle under stress of a heavy wind. Beautiful canoes hewn from a single tree crowded with warriors from helm to the carved and painted prow that towered up bearing tribal insignia. Bows and arrows, stone hatchets, and barbed staves were the Haida weapons, but the strangers walking upon the waters were armed with the roughness and wildness of the sea. The Haida fleet sunk into the blood-stained water when the strangers triumphed; and in after years there suddenly appeared a pillar of stone in the sea some thirty feet in thickness and nearly a hundred high. It stands at the present time in Pillar bay now hoary with age and crowned with a growth of bushes and rank grass, where the sea birds nest, this pillar of the Strangers' triumph in memory of a victory over the tribes of Haida.

ASSESSMENT ASSURANCE.

The Dominion Government Refuses Certificates to Certain Companies.

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—A question of much interest to insurance men and more particularly to companies founded on the assessment plan has just arisen. Several companies which do business on that plan have lately sprung into existence. According to the law they have to be incorporated by the provincial government and obtain a certificate from the Dominion government before they can commence business. Recently the Home Benefit and Life Insurance Co. applied to the Ontario government and received a charter of incorporation. Application was then made to the Dominion government for the usual certificate but it was refused by the Minister of Justice on the ground that the society's incorporation was illegal. The opposition of the older companies, it is said, resulted in this discovery and as other companies, similar to the Home Benefit, already in existence, would be affected by it, they have been notified that when their certificates run out they will not be renewed. This has resulted in something like a panic amongst the assessment companies, who have now retained Hon. William McDougall to look after their interests. Mr. Sedgwick, deputy minister of justice, being interviewed, said that the minister of justice gave his opinion that these companies cannot be incorporated under the Ontario act and consequently the certificate referred to was refused. The other companies doing a similar business have also been notified that unless they obtain proper legislation during the winter these certificates would not be renewed. They require a federal act to make them legally constituted companies. "The certificate we give them is something like a certificate of character," he said, "every company carrying on the insurance business throughout Canada has a license from the Dominion government to enable them to do business in a legal way. Those companies outside Canada who wish to do business in the Dominion must have certificates. There are four Canadian companies who do business on the assessment plan. They are the Canadian Mutual Aid Association, Toronto; Commercial Travellers' Mutual Benefit Society, Toronto; Mutual Relief Society of Nova Scotia, Yarmouth, N. S; and the Provincial Provident, St. Thomas, Ont. Then there is the Mutual Reserve fund Association of New York, which has to give a deposit receipt of $50,000.

TALMAGE'S TABERNACLE.

The Edifice and Its Contents Destroyed by Fire—Loss, $150.000.

New York, Oct. 13.—The famous Brooklyn tabernacle, of which Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D., is pastor, has been for the second time in its history totally destroyed by fire. At 2:15 o'clock this morning a policeman discovered flames issuing from the small windows over the main entrance, and sent out an alarm.

Soon after the firemen arrived it became evident that the edifice was doomed. It burned like a tinder-box, and the firemen, despairing of saving it, turned their efforts to the adjoining buildings. Many of the occupants of the neighboring dwellings were already awake, and the police proceeded to arouse those who were sleeping.

A building on the east side and two on the west side were destroyed, and a number of buildings across the street from the tabernacle were badly damaged. The residents of the neighborhood were awakened and rushed out, and enormous crowds viewed the fire.

In about an hour the tabernacle was a complete wreck. The loss on the church including organ and furnature, is $150,000, covered by insurance. The loss on the adjacent buildings is perhaps $10,000 more.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, but the theory is that during the thunder storm last night, lightning entered on the electric light wires and set fire to the building.

The indictment against Wm. S. Smith, post office clerk, Kingston, accused of opening a letter addressed to Sir John A. Macdonald, was thrown out at the assizes.

The Bank of Toronto block, Barrie, and adjacent buildings were damaged by fire last night. The principal losers are the Bank of Toronto and J. M. Bathwell. Loss, $10,000; insurance, $6,000.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—It would be a gross injustice to confound that standard healing agent—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—with the ordinary ointments, lotions and salves. They are oftentimes inflammatory and astringent. This oil is, on the contrary, eminently cooling and soothing when applied externally to relieve pain, and powerfully remedial when swallowed.

—Mrs. E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, Warren county, N. Y., writes: "She has been troubled with asthma for four years, had to sit up night after night with it. She has taken two bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and is perfectly cured. She strongly recommends it, and wishes to act as agent among her neighbors."

POLICE COURT.

(Before Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C.)

Ah Sing, a Mongolian charged, on remand, with stealing a chicken from S. Clay, was up for trial again. Mr. Walker for the defence put in a plea of the premises to show that it would be impossible to see a man carrying anything into the house occupied by the Chinese. He also brought witnesses to show that dogs had been seen at various times chasing the chickens. He then claimed that there had been no evidence given clear enough to convict the prisoner.

His Honor did not look at it in just that light, and sent the prisoner up for two months with hard labor.

Two Indians were charged with rescuing a horse from the custody of the pound-keeper. The accused pleaded guilty, but said they did not know that the prosecutor was the pound-keeper. The case was dismissed on payment of $1 and costs.

Hon. Mr. Dewdney's Visit.

Mayor Grant has received the following letter from Hon. Edgar Dewdney.

Ottawa, Oct. 4th, 1889.

MY DEAR MAYOR,—I have just returned from my trip to the west, and take this opportunity of expressing my sincere thanks to you for the trouble and pains you took to make my visit to your city as pleasant as possible. This you succeeded in doing to my utmost satisfaction, and while thanking yourself, personally, for your kindness, I also wish, through you, to return thanks to my old friends in British Columbia who gave me such a hearty greeting on the occasion of my late visit. Believe me, my dear Mayor, yours very sincerely. E. DEWDNEY.

Fall Poetry.

About this time it is in order to expect the youthful and poetic muse to bubble forth in song, descriptive of the falling leaves, fairy frost fingers and the dark, funereal days of winter.

Coming Event.

The Orangemen of this city are making preparations for a grand ball to be given by them on November 4th. Tickets for the affair are on sale at $2 for gentlemen, with the privilege of escorting as many ladies as desired.

Marine.

The steamer Maude got away for the Nass at 9:30 last night, with about 150 Indians aboard. Capt. Jno. Irving went up in the steamer.

Several new piles have been driven at the outer end of the C. P. N. wharf.

A New Town.

There has been quite a movement in lots in the embryo town of Steveston, Lulu Island, within the past week. The principal buyers were Victorians, who expect to increase their investments ten times over. Among the improvements going up in the new town is a hotel to cost $6,000. One of the leading spirits in this enterprise is Ald. J. Mahrer, of Nanaimo.

A Pastor's Resignation.

Rev. James Millar, who for the last two and a half years has been the pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, of Nanaimo, read his letter resigning his charge of the church, to take effect on January 1st, 1890, or sooner if the congregation can obtain a minister to fill his pulpit. It is intimated that Mr. Millar will transfer his clerical labors to San Francisco or some other large centre in California.

Granite Quarry.

Messrs. C. J. Prevost, Registrar Supreme Court, Charles Wilson, barrister, and E. Thain have returned from Nelson Island, where they are interested in an extensive deposit of superior granite rock, which is exceptionally suitable for building purposes. They are well pleased with their prospects and intend opening up an extensive quarry. Supplies and men will be sent up next week, and work commenced with vigor.

A Masquerader.

One of the sights to be seen last night on the street was a swarthy looking woman attired in male garments, smoking a cigarette. The woman was in company with a young man and visited a Douglas street public resort, and was the cynosure of all. The action may have been considered smart as a diversion from the regulation female attire, but the woman, perhaps, was not aware that she placed herself within the pale of the law by masquerading.

Inland Exhibition.

The first exhibition of the Inland Agricultural association, which was held last week at Asheroft, was a big success and the members anticipate that in the future it will beat the provincial association in influence. The officers for the ensuing year are: President, C A Semlin, M P P; vice-presidents, J A Mara, M P, and S J Tunstall, M D; secretary-treasurer, D C McMorris; board of managers, J B Hull, T Earle, E B Drummond, W Morrison, E C Davison, J C Barnes, C F Cornwall, J Vair, J Greaves, J Clapperton, W J Roper, E Dougherty.

A Pointer.

Whatcom Reveille: The Canadian and Northern Pacific, it is stated on good authority, have come to a definite understanding regarding Bellingham bay, and the F. & S. with a J. J. Hill connection is to meet with obstructions upon its passage. It is possible that Mr. Hill will retire from the C. P. directory after the next regular meeting. The Seattle and Northern is an N. P., road, and the B. B. & B. C., is the C. P. plum in the division of the spoils. This little pointer is not set in long primer, so it is possible that it will escape the near-sighted.

The Queue May Stay.

A Chinese chicken thief was sent up for two months by the police magistrate this morning. Counsel for the defence asked that an order be made that the Mongolina's queue be not cut off. His Honor was not aware that it was customary to curtail the capillary appendages of the Chinese sent to jail. Chief Sheppard explained that it had been done in times past, but was not usual now. His Honor did not consider it just that any additional punishment should be inflicted, and did not think it was legal to cut the queues off Chinese prisoners' heads.

From the West Coast.

The schooner Wanderer, which returned from the west coast yesterday with Messrs. Penning and Brown on board, had a pretty lively time of it on the home trip, she being out in the big blow of last week. She weathered it safely, however. Those on board the schooner visited Father Brabant at Heequoit, and found that gentleman in the best of health. Large parties of Indians had just returned from the Sound hop fields, well laden with stores and blankets purchased in the land of the free. At Barclay Sound Mr. and Mrs. Gillot were called on and found well. It was learned at Nootka Sound that the Richard Rush had called there with four canoes and Indians, which had been picked up by her in Behring Sea.

Halloween Concert.

The Young People's Association of the Presbyterian Church have arranged to hold their annual halloween concert on Tuesday, the 29th instant. Many of the leading vocalists of the city will take part. The choir of the church will also render some beautiful Scotch part songs. Their ability in this direction is well known and a treat is in store for lovers of Scotch music. It is understood Mr. Brown has the musical arrangements in charge and the intention is not to make the entertainment purely Scotch. The first part will consist of Scotch selections, the second part partaking of a miscellaneous character. This is a wise decision, for many who attend these deservedly popular entertainments given from time to time by Mr. Brown and choir, although enjoying the Scotch pieces exceedingly, would no doubt be even more delighted if the programme was varied by an English item. The names of those who will assist will be published in a short time.

Public Arches—Vice-Regal Visit.

At a meeting of the committee on the governor-general's reception, held last evening, it was resolved that four arches would be erected, located respectively at the foot of Yates street, the corner of Government and Yates streets, on Fort street, at or near Mr. Heywood's residence, and at Government House.

It was further decided that separate tenders be invited for the construction of the said arches, to be handed in to city clerk not later than Friday morning next at 10 o'clock.

Separate tenders were also to be invited for decorating the streets selected as the route for the procession, beginning at the Hudson's Bay Company's wharf, thence to Yates street, thence to the corner of Yates and Government street; along Government street to Fort street, and along Fort street to the the third arch, in an artistic manner, by connecting the poles on each side of the street, lengthwise, with festoonings of evergreens draped with flags and bunting, and crosswise, also, in the central and business portion of the city.

The chairman was appointed to interview the leading Chinese merchants to learn what part, if any, the Chinese residents would be willing to take in the matter of decoration, upon the occasion of His Excellency's arrival, and also to make certain other arrangements with regard to flag ornamentation.

The question of illumination was discussed.

TO-DAY'S REAL ESTATE SALE.

The Royal Hospital Property Sold—Good Prices Realized.

The real estate auction sale at J. P. Davies & Co.'s auction rooms this morning was largely attended, business men, leading real estate dealers and speculators being on hand to watch the progress of the sale. As was generally expected, property went high. About $80,000 worth was sold and went at figures even above what was anticipated. The following is the result of the sale:

Royal Hospital property, head of Pandora street, S. J. Pitts, $13,500.

Jubilee Hospital Donation, junction of Oak Bay Avenue and Cadboro Bay Road of 1 2-5 acres purchased by Mr. Morris, $976.

Lot 121, New Westminster district, situated on the Vancouver-Westminster road, near Hastings, brought $48 an acre.

ST. JOHN'S BAZAAR

Opened at Philharmonic Hall This Afternoon—Pencil Notes.

The fancy fair, or bazaar, of the lady members of St. John's church, was opened in Philharmonic Hall at three o'clock this afternoon. A representative of this paper was present at the time and took a few notes of the many interesting features.

The hall proper has been most tastefully decorated, and presents a very pretty appearance. At the left hand of the main entrance is the first booth. Here are a thousand and one things of tasty and beautiful designs, all either useful or ornamental. This booth is presided over by Misses Edmunds, Twiss, Johnstone and Nelson.

The next table is also covered with all sorts of things, brilliant with bits of silk, delicate embroidery and tasty arrangement of colors. Fancy articles which go far towards beautifying a home are here in abundance, and the ladies in charge, Mrs. Bonrobier and the Misses Jenns and Loewen, will likely make large sales.

A clothing stall just in front of the stage, presided over by Mrs. Saunders and Mrs. Dr. Renwick, is covered with all sorts of clothing for little ones. Warm woollen socks, dainty pinafores, curious shaped caps and comfortable little coats would tempt fathers and mothers of families to invest.

On the right of the hall near the stage is a booth in charge of Mrs. Haynes, Mrs. Simon and Mrs. Penny, which it would be in vain to attempt to describe. The variety and amount of articles here on sale would stock a good-sized store, but the prices asked for wares are not exorbitant, and there is no doubt but what the table will be depleted ere the bazaar is over.

The Misses Rose Jenns, Grahame and Finlayson have a fine display at another table, and penurious must be the one who would not invest, for among the many beautiful things on sale some are sure to be required.

A Japanese booth, presided over by Mrs. Ridgway-Wilson and the Misses O'Reilly and Powell, occupied the centre of the hall. Here nearly everything is Oriental, and to make the appearance more striking a huge Japanese umbrella overtops the many curious and unique articles on sale, while Japanese lanterns illuminate.

A refreshment stand is a most enticing feature of the bazaar, and the many dainties dispensed by the fair hands of Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Loewen and Miss Rhodes would tempt the veriest epicure. Fragrant coffee and the finest flavored tea will be provided for the thirsty.

An "art gallery" where a wealth of ingenuity has been expended in making amusement is among the many attractions and those who wish to see some fine "imitations" of the old masters would do well to visit the gallery. More will be learned about the art of panning by a five minutes stay than could be obtained by reading the comic papers for a year.

"Mrs. Jarley's Waxworks" are another feature, and also a new one for this city. The figures are all automatic, but will, on being wound up by the obliging showwoman, "work" in a most comical manner. Visitors who view the wax works are requested not to laugh—unless they can't possibly help it. A slight charge extra is imposed to see the waxworks, but the money will be well spent.

This evening a farce-charade entitled, "The Clock Maker's Hat," will be performed by a few of the young people of the church, and the Queen City band will discourse sweet music. Mrs. Lombard and Mr. Lemby will also delight by a rendition of vocal and instrumental selections in their own inimitable style. The inducements offered in the way of entertainment are innumerable, and visitors to St. John's Church Bazaar will by no means regret it. A large number who were at the opening expressed it as their intention to come again in the evening, for, as one pretty Miss said, "It looks so much nicer when the hall is lit up."

HONOR TO WHOM, ETC.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—You have not got the facts about that Stamford joint, and as the man lives right in our city who has invented, patented and is manufacturing drain pipes of the same material, I think it is only fair that the public should know who did run the first 100 joints. The facts are these: The Olsen Pipe Company undertook to run the joint in the factory near James Bay bridge. Mr. Hill was to give the proportions and the contractor to pay a handsome sum for the information. When ever thing was ready, Mr. Hill was asked to give the proportion of each ingredient and he could not. Mr. Olsen then made the mixtare with slight variations in the same proportion that he makes the drain pipes and run the first 100 joints that were ever run in this city and they are running them now. Mr. Hill got the money. Give Mr. Olsen the honor if there is any.

T. G. RAYNER,
Manager of Olsen's Drain Pipe Co.

DON'T WANT THE CREDIT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—I wish to state in connection with the Stamford joint to be used in the Johnson street sewer, that a Mr. Wearing, a prominent American sanitary engineer, paid myself and Mr. Stamford, the patentees of the joint, a visit at our works at Beckingham, England, in June, 1880, and from our conversation with the gentleman I am of the opinion that it was the first time Mr. Wearing ever saw the joint. Mr. Wearing was very much pleased with it, so much so that he took back with him to the United States four men who were familiar with the joint. Now, this information which Mr. Summerfield has is apparently from Mr. Wearing's works. I wish it to be distinctly understood, however, that the four pipes delivered at the City Surveyor's office were made under my instructions and in the presence of the City Surveyor. I wish to state also in conclusion, that I do not care who gets the credit for the joint so I get the money.

W. H. HILL.

Rivals Electricity.

A lamp constructed to burn refuse petroleum and called the "Lucigen" was tested at the Albion Iron Works last evening. The apparatus, although old in England, is now here. At the test yesterday it worked very satisfactorily, giving out a pure white flame four feet high by six inches wide, equalling the light of 2,500 candles. The cost of maintaining the lights is small, and they are well adapted for mill and outside work.

Brilliancy.

The Westside will be brilliantly illuminated by a thousand candle power electric arc light this evening. A similar one will shed a radiance around the cigar store of H. L. Salmon.

Hymeneal.

The marriage of Joseph H. Thain and Miss Annie C. Gowen will take place at eleven o'clock to-morrow morning in St. John's church, the Rev. Percival Jenns officiating.

From Portland

The O. R. & N. Co.'s steamer Michigan arrived from Portland at 9 o'clock this morning with 65 tons of freight, composed of one car load of beer, four cars of flour and two cars of miscellaneous freight. After discharging she left for other provincial ports.

After Whiskey Sellers.

The steamer Rustler, with Chief Constable Stewart on board, is hourly expected from her trip to the north, says the Nanaimo Free Press, in search of some lively Indian whiskey selling. It is said that a large and profitable (if not caught) illicit trade is being carried on with whiskey among the Indians. It is hinted that the Terminal City is the hailing port of a good many of these gentry.

A Chinese Scrap.

Two Chinamen ran foul of each other near the corner of Government and Johnson streets this morning and commenced "scrapping" as only Chinese know how to go at it. The fight was declared a draw but during the vigorous, though unscientific round which took place, a couple of pigtails were pulled out several inches over the ordinary length and two or three fashionable finger nails—the style being that worn by Nebuchadnezzar—were ruthlessly pulled out.

Unfair to Laborers.

The Nanaimo Free Press says, "Great indignation was felt by the Nanaimo coal trimmers when they discovered that between twenty and thirty men had been brought by the Umatilla on account of the Vancouver 'longshoremen's strike.' If the Nanaimo trimmers were indignant, what about the Vancouver men? Under the Contract Labor Law of the United States it would be an impossibility to do this kind of thing on the other side, or for a Canadian or other foreign vessel to do American coasting trade.

False Report.

The moulders who are on strike desire to correct the statement in the morning paper to the effect that they had "visited the Albion Iron Works and asked to be taken back." They went to the works at the request of the manager, Mr. Bullen, who sent word that he wanted to see some of them. When they went Mr. Bullen offered three or four of them jobs if they would go to work but informed the others that their places had been filled. As the places had been filled with non-union men, those who were offered their old jobs refused to take them, and so matters remained simply as they were.

Seattle's Fire Boat.

The fire boat which Seattle will have as soon as it can be constructed will be one of the nautical wonders of the coast. She is to throw two solid 4-inch streams of water, and the range of these streams will be at least 300 feet—solid water, not spray. To fully comprehend the power of one of these streams it should be remembered that it is from eight to twelve times as large in cross-sections as the streams from ordinary fire engines, such as those in use in the fire department, while the nozzle velocity is many times greater. The efficiency of such a stream is probably twenty-five times as great as the stream from an ordinary engine. The boat will flood out a fire that has enveloped a whole block as with a deluge, anywhere within 2000 feet of the water front.

From Alberni.

The steamer Boscowitz, Captain Williams, arrived from Alberni at one o'clock this afternoon. Hon. John Robson and Mrs. Robson returned on the vessel. The Boscowitz left here last Friday evening, and arriving at Patcheus the next morning Messrs. H. Fry and T. D. Conway disembarked to look at their telegraph operations on the Cape Beale line. The same evening, about 6 o'clock, Alberni was reached, but the tide being out the steamer lay to and did not make the wharf till the next day at noon. Yesterday noon a meeting was held in the school house, which was packed. John Robson delivered one of his customary harangues after which the steamer was boarded and a start for home made at three o'clock. At Ecoole a stop was made to discharge freight, and this morning Sooke was visited for freight, where twenty racks of potatoes and four dressed carcasses were taken on. Not a pound of freight could be found at Alberni.
